Lookin' Around with "Mac"

Our 70-mile scouting trip to Lake City, Moore's Flat, Graniteville and Washington last Sunday didn't exactly time-machine us backward a century but we feel we have touched the spirit of the early days.

Bob Paine, Ken Wray and I jeeped the overnight trip, leaving Nevada City Saturday afternoon and returning home Sunday noon. We laid our sleeping bags on the banks of the Middle Yuba in Gold canyon—but that's getting ahead of the story.

Our primary purpose was to bring Bob up-to-date on roads and landmarks in preparation for the annual trek of the Nevada County Historical Society, scheduled for Sunday, July 23. Bob was raised in that country and once knew it intimately but he hadn't visited Moore's Flat in 25 years.

We drove out the Blue Tent road via Edward's Crossing, and reached the site of Lake City about ten miles from home. Once a busy village of 600 or more, Lake City apparently boasts only one permanent resident now. A bronzed and wrinkled old fellow rocked comfortably as we scuffed through the dust to his shady porch. Name of Carter, he said, but no kin to the Carters who used to own the ranch. Been there since 1902 he recollected. Things weren't so good any more. Strangers steal things, chickens all gone now. Hasn't been good around here since they cut the water off the ridge.

Bob took us over to see the ruins of the old Paine hotel, which his father and grandfather once operated. Only a rotted floor remains. Hand-forged iron nails loosely hold ancient planks to hand-hewn floor joists. Across the road massive gray timbers still stand gaunt against the sky, marking the place where stables once sheltered the horses used on the stage lines. Here is an impressive example of craftsmanship in wood; every great timber was neatly joined by mortise and tenon, carefully shaped by hand tools.

Lake City stands at the junction of a three-prong fork, the right branch going on to North Bloomfield, the left to North Columbia. We chose the center road which winds up the hill because Old Man Carter said it was the best route to Moore's Flat.

Traveling in an open jeep, we were soon covered with a heavy coat of dust. Our mothers would not have recognized us. Probably half the distance we traveled from here on we were accompanied by a swirling brown fog of pulverized earth.

At the "backbone" we dropped sharply over onto the Middle Fork watershed, got our first glimpse of a vast forest, partly bared by a great fire in 1924. We left behind the spectacular erosion of the famous Malakoff Diggings, which we had circled to the north.

By following the road signs it is not difficult to find the site of Moore's Flat but you must take a little-used trail into the pines to find the best ruin: the iron-doored brick building of Hegarty's Emporium. Built to resist fire, the old structure could not resist the ravages of time. Two years ago the roof caved in, taking the floor with it into the deep basement. One of the four-tiered red brick walls has fallen out and the great rusted doors hang loosely on their battered hinges. In one corner the old safe is about ready to fall on its face.

Within 100 yards we found three safes. One tightly sealed iron monster stands beside the road as a landmark for the turn into Vizzard's ranch. In the yard of the mayor's house we found century-old whiskey bottles,

FRANK WRIGHT NAMED COUNCILMAN; NEW FIRE TRUCK ORDERED

Councilman Marvin Haddy announced at city council meeting last night that Life Guard Verle "Puss" Gray expected to resign his position at the municipal pool effective Aug. 1 in order to accept a position in San Francisco.

Frank Wright, 548 E. Broad, Broad, was appointed city councilman last night to fill vacancy created by resignation of H. F. Sofge.

Wright, cost accountant at the Idaho-Maryland Mine, is married and a native of Nevada City. He formerly was city water collector.

Wright will be sworn in this week by City Clerk George H. Calanan.

The council accepted a bid of $15,133.41 for a four-wheel drive Pacific fire truck to be delivered approximately Nov. 15. The bid, fob factory at Clintonville, Wis., was not the lowest bid of five submitted, but was the lowest to meet specifications of the fire department for a four-wheel drive.

Annexation of a large area to the south of the city was discussed at last week's meeting of the council The area includes about three-quarters of a mile and over 150 homes and businesses with assessed value at more than a million dollars.

Byron Brock started the discussion when he appeared before the council and urged extension of the city sewage system to the area.

The proposed addition would extend along the highway almost to Town Talk and would include a portion of the Ridge road district.

The council voted unanimously for a raise of domestic garbage rates from 50 cents to 75 cents a month and instructed City Attorney John L. Larue to prepare an ordinance to provide for the increased rates.

Arthur and Enrico Gagliardi, operators of the garbage collection service, appeared before the council and declared the 50 cent rate did not return them a profit.

TRUCK DRIVER DIES OF INJURIES IN LOG MISHAP

Robert A. Douglass, 24, Grass Valley, died Tuesday morning at Miners hospital of internal injuries sustained Saturday afternoon when he was caught between a load of lumber and the trailer of his truck and trailer rig while loading at the Omega mine near Washington.

Funeral services were conducted yesterday morning at Holmes Funeral Home, with interment in Elm Ridge Lawn cemetery, Grass Valley.

A native of Oakland, and veteran of World War II, he had lived in Grass Valley four years. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Adeline Douglass, Grass Valley; brother, George; uncle, Louis Perry, Los Angeles, and aunt, Mrs. Kitty LaSalle, Colorado.

At the time of the accident he was transferring a load of lumber from the truck to the trailer. He had loosened a binding cable when the load rolled backward and pinned him between the load and the trailer.

GRAND JURY SUGGESTS D. A MAINTAIN OFFICE IN THE COURTHOUSE

Recommendations that the district attorney maintain an office in the courthouse and add a second deputy to his staff was made in an interim report of the grand jury, filed Friday morning.

William Cassettari, Grass Valley, is the only deputy at present to District Attorney Vernon Stoll. Cassettari receives $1,200 a year at present. The report recommended the first deputy receive $2,000 a year and the second deputy $1,500 a year.

The grand jury also recommended the office of the district attorney be open during business hours.

In another action the grand jury recommended the Veterans Memorial building, Grass Valley, be returned to a building manager system. The jury pointed out that cost to the county for operating the building under a committee was more than double the cost under a building manager.

The report recommended the manager handle all activities and rentals and be responsible only to the board of supervisors.

The jury recommended "that the sum of $397.60 shown in the records as expended for refinishing American Legion furniture in 1947-48 be returned immediately to the county."

The jury also recommended a proper maintenance of the Veterans Memorial building in Truckee be placed in the hands of a custodian.

SLOT MACHINES BEING REMOVED FROM CITY

Slot machines are being removed from Nevada City this week in preparation for tomorrow when the new state anti-slot machine law becomes effective. The new law makes mere possession of a slot machine illegal.

A spokesman for the Nevada City Tavern Owners association, said all machines will probably be removed by noon today.

The spokesman said the tavern owners will not risk the loss of their liquor licenses for the machines.

The representative declined to say whether the machines were being removed into Nevada state or not.

Sheriff Richard W. Hoskins declined an offer by Attorney General Frederick N. Howser to help enforce the new law when it becomes effective tomorrow.

Hoskins said he believed his staff is capable of enforcing the law.

DRAFT BOARD OFFICE IS RE-ESTABLISHED IN NEVADA CITY

The Nevada county draft board has re-established headquarters in Nevada City, and expects to start processing men next week. The three-man board, consisting of William Durbrow, Town Talk; John J. Looser, Grass Valley, and Ray N. Brett, Downieville, i located at 246 Commercial street, the former location of the state department of social welfare.

Mrs. Dorothy Stevens, Grass Valley, clerk of the board, began work this morning.

The selective service board had been inactive since draft headquarters for this area had been centered at Yuba City to serve Nevada, Yuba, Sutter, Colusa, Glenn and Sierra counties.

Action in re-establishing the local draft office is part of the statewide action in returning the California system to its status prior to 1948.

Miss Ethel Bryner, clerk of the Yuba City office, said she could not say how many potential draftees there are in the district.

The local boards have been operating in routine fashion since there have been no draft calls during the past 18 months.

DAMAGE SUIT WILL GO TO JURY THIS MORNING

The $350,000 personal damage suit of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith of Truckee against the Silvey Livestock Transportation company is expected to go to the jury this morning following completion of presentation of testimony yesterday afternoon in Nevada county superior court.

Smith asks $175,000 for fractured arms, ribs and skull. His wife, Vivian, asks the same sum for a fractured hand, two fractures of one leg and a fractured ankle.

Archibald McDougall, Sacramento, attorney for the defense, called only one witness, Chester M. Cahill, Scandia, Kans., to the stand. Cahill related he followed the Silvey truck, operated by M. J. Abreau, from the Donner summit to the scene of the collision west of Truckee on the night of Jan. 19. Cahill said the truck was traveling at about 30 miles an hour and as it approached the curve the trailer suddenly slid across the road and struck the Smith automobile.

Dr. Kenneth Maclean, who attended the couple shortly after the collision testified that in his opinion Mrs. Smith would never be able to walk unaided and an injury to a knee virtually constitutes a deformity.

Also injured in the accident was Carl Cross, owner of Tahoe-Truckee Lumber company. His suit will start Monday.

LIVE OAK MAN ADMITS CATTLE RUSTLING

Oscar Davidson, Live Oak, who is in custody of Yuba county officials, admitted the killing and butchering of a calf found near Smartville Sunday night. The arrest was made by Deputy Sheriff Richard Williams and Undersheriff John Murphy of Yuba county, and Game Wardens Ed Dennett and Ross Wagner.

The FBI was called in and the case turned over to the federal government after an interpretation from the attorney general ruled that as the crime had been committeed on a government reservation it did not come within the jurisdiction of county or state law enforcement officers.

PROWL CAR HIT

Nevada City police patrol car was slightly damaged Sunday when it was struck while parked in front of the city hall by a car driven by William M. Stapleton, 35, Grass Valley. Stapleton said he stopped at Broad coming in from York street, and turned to look at a child in the rear seat and let out the clutch.

DEMURRERS OVER-RULED

Judge James Snell of Nevada county superior court over-ruled two demurrers this week. One sought dismissal of $30,605 damage action brought by H. S. Foreman against Mrs. Ghetta Roscoe, former owner of the Union hotel. The second demurrer was filed by attorneys representing the Pacific States Savings and Loan company and the Bank of America who are being sued by Fred J. Fossa for collection of $800 for a check which the defendant alleges was forged.

BLACKSMITH BELLOWS PRESENTED TO COUNTY HISTORICAL MUSEUM

George Mathis, noted commercial artist of Nevada City, who is building a home on the Murchie road, uncovered a relic of blacksmithing days in the form of a huge bellows. He has presented it to the Nevada county historical museum. Blacksmith shops were as necessary as station stops on the main road in the county during the era of horse-drawn vehicles. Horseshoeing and wagon repairing were carried on by the blacksmith. Near his forge was a bellows made of wood, leather and canvas, and used to blow air on the hot coals, keeping them alive to heat iron that was to be hammered into any desired shape.

John O'Donnell, Grass Valley, gave a set of old stereopticon views of early Nevada City, that residents will find very interesting. These are being copied to a larger size.

The museum, located at 214 Main street, Nevada City, will be open this Saturday and Sunday, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Elmer Stevens will be in charge Sunday.

Seventy-two persons visited the museum last weekend. Former residents included Anton and Lou Boardman, sons of an early day editor of the Nevada Transcript, and Mrs. Walter W. Smith, Puente, the granddaughter of Edwin P. Marsellus, who discovered the Manzanita mine in 1864.

Out-of-state visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Thompson, of Medford, Ore.; George F. Andis, Ashley, Pa.; and Mr. and Mrs. Jay Carpenter, Reno, Nev. Carpenter is director of the Nevada state bureau of mines.

ENTERTAINMENT SERIES DISCUSSED BY CHAMBER

Plans for a series of entertainments sponsored by merchants of Nevada City to bring people to town and to finance purchase of about 5,000 feet of rails for construction of a miniature railroad at Pioneer park were discussed Tuesday evening at a meeting of the Nevada City chamber of commerce at city hall.

The locomotive for the railway has been built by Max Solaro, chief of police, who conceived the plan for a park railroad. Solaro has the rails lined up, and only needs the do-re-mi to acquire the rails, lay the roadbed and track.

Frank Stewart appeared before the chamber and suggested the entertainment days as a means of financing the project. Stewart and Ray Spickelmier, president of the chamber, are canvassing the town to get the reaction of the merchants to the program.

Saturday, July 29, and Saturday, Aug. 26, have been set as tentative dates for the first two programs to be patterned after the variety show and street dance held during the Fourth of July Centennial celebration. The August date tentatively calls for a "back-to-school bargain day."

Three officers of the chamber, three representatives of the press and Stewart attended the meeting.

I. L. Nicholson filed suit in superior court Wednesday against Clyde W. Smith, asking $15,399.50 damages as result of altercation on streets of Colfax last Aug. 22.

COUNTY IS CALLED CRADLE OF COMSTOCK BY JAY CARPENTER

Nevada City and Grass Valley were described as the "cradle of the Comstock" in a talk before the California Hydraulic Mining association Sunday by Jay T. Carpenter, director of the Nevada bureau of mines and director of the Mackay school of mines at the University of Nevada. Carpenter spoke before the CHMA at a picnic meeting at Scotts' Flat reservoir.

Carpenter traced the early history of the Comstock when samples of high grade silver ore were brought to local assayers. The resulting assay reports of $1,000 in gold and $3,000 in silver per yard brought on the great Comstock rush of 1859 and overnight Virginia City mushroomed into a large city.

Carpenter described new methods and equipment being used in central Nevada that is enabling operators to show a profit on 30-cent ore. Huge mechanical hands scratch gravel from a bank and it is shoveled onto a conveyor belt which transports it to washing equipment. The operation does not require the huge volume of water necessary in hydraulic methods.

In a discussion following Carpenter's talk, E. A. Bailey, retired official of the bureau of water resources, suggested similar operations might be applied to some of the diggings in Nevada county, and particularly the Malakoff.

George W. Hallock, Grass Valley, president of the CHMA, said the largest gold bearing gravel deposits in the world are in Nevada county and that some day methods will be devised to extract the hundreds of millions of dollars of gold still remaining in the tertiary streams without violating the debris laws.

Dolls Sent From Japan To Add to Collection of Mrs. Lenore Coughlin

A recent addition to the doll collection of Mrs. Lenore Coughlin was the traditional Emperor and Empress of Japan sent by Lieutenant and Mrs. C. W. Notestine. Mrs. Notestine is the former Shirley Holub, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Holub.

Richest in doll lore of all nations is Japan, where annual festivals of magnificent proportions are celebrated in honor of the dolls. New treasures are added from time to time, and the old ones are sacredly kept for the glorious past of Japan.

The figures representing the Emperor and Empress were ceremonial court robes such as are still worn on the occasion of an accession to the throne or an imperial wedding. In his right hand he holds a wooden scepter and on his head is the old style Japanese crown.

The Empress is clad in twelve garments over which are rich embroideries. A crown of old Chinese style decorated with metal hangings, is on her head.

The dolls bring Mrs. Coughlin's collection up to 148 dolls, with the balance of her more than 400 dolls of antique and character types.

"Life" is the subject of the Christian Science lesson-sermon for Sunday with the golden text taken from Psalms: "The Lord is my light and my salvation; whom shall I fear? the Lord is the strength of my life; of whom shall I be afraid?" (27:1).

The sermon will be comprised of citations chosen from the Bible and from the Christian Science text-book "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, including the following:

Colossians 3:2-4: "Set your affection on things above, not on things on the earth. For ye are dead, and your life is hid with Christ in God. When Christ, who is our life, shall appear, then shall ye also appear with him in glory."

Science and Health: "When spiritual being is understood in all its perfection, continuity, and might, then shall man be found in God's imagee. The absolute meaning of the apostolic words is this: Then shall man be found in His likeness, perfect as the Father, indestructible in Life, 'hid with Christ in God,'—with Truth in divine Love, where human sense hath not seen man" (p. 325).

State's D.A.'s Map Crime Law Changes

DISTRICT ATTORNEY EDMUND G. (PAT) BROWN of San Francisco (center), president of the District Attorneys' Association of California and candidate for Attorney General, is shown here conferring with two members of the Association's crime committee in connection with recommendations for basic changes in criminal law procedures. The recommendations, supported by Brown, will be submitted to the Legislature at the next session. Brown emphasizes that their effectiveness "will depend to a large extent upon the cooperation of the Attorney General with local law enforcement officials—and the incumbent has alienated most of them." Brown examines the Association's findings with DISTRICT ATTORNEY VERNON STOLL, Nevada County (left) and DISTRICT ATTORNEY JOHN [illegible]URRAY, Inyo County (right).

SEVERAL SMALL FIRES IN NEVADA COUNTY

Personnel of the Tahoe national forest brought under control Saturday a fire started Friday by an un-extinguished campfire in the Washington area. A sawdust pile fire near Sierraville Saturday was controlled by the Sierraville district suppression crew.

The state division of forestry reported four fire calls and one false alarm over the weekend. Friday a small half-acre fire was controlled on the highway near Lake Vera. Saturday the roadside dump on the Lake Vera road caught fire and was extinguished. The same day a small fire was stopped at the same location of the Friday fire.

Sunday the state trucks responded to a call on highway 49 just west of Grass Valley, but found that passing motorists had already extinguished the blaze.

A fisherman's abandoned fire on the south shore of Scott's Flat reservoir had the crews of the state division of forestry and the Tahoe national forest looking for several hours before it was found and extinguished. A separate story appears in another column.

TIMBER IMPROVEMENT CREW STARTS WORK

A timber stand improvement crew started work Monday in the Marsh Mill area east of Graniteville, according to H. I. Snider, Bloomfield district manager.

The crew under the direction of Paul Fox, will thin new fir growth and prune smaller trees. Fox headed the timber improvement work in the Bloomfield district last year.

SUPERVISORS

The board of supervisors Monday appropriated $100 for rent and advertising of the county farm market which operates Saturdays on the Nevada City-Grass Valley highway near Glenbrook. The supervisors met as a board of equalization Monday and will meet again next Monday in the same capacity.

Company E, 184th Infantry Regiment, California National Guard, returned Sunday from intensive summer training camp held at Camp San Luis Obispo. Three officers and 55 men participated.

GRIZZLY CREEK BIDS $33,080 FOR STUMPAGE NEAR COLUMBIA HILL

A sales contract for $33,080 of stumpage of ponderosa pine, sugar pine, white fire, douglas fir and incense cedar was awarded the Grizzly Creek Lumber company, according to an announcement by Robert E. Dasmann, assistant forest supervisor of Tahoe national forest. Dasman also announced a $55,000 sale of stumpage to American River Pine company of Foresthill.

The two timber sales total five and a half million board feet.

Dasmann added that an estimated 60,000,000 feet of public timber will be cut this year in the Tahoe national forest. This will be twice as much timber as has ever been cut in any one year previously. Dasmann attributed the huge increase to construction of access roads in isolated areas, and market conditions that are creating a great demand for fir lumber.

Dasmann broke down the sales contract to the Grizzly Creek company as $20 per thousand for ponderosa pine, $21.50 for sugar pine, $5 for white fire, $7.25 for douglas fir and $4 for incense cedar. This timber is all located in the Long Point area close to Columbia Hill.

The American River Pine company was awarded the sale on bid prices of $25.10 for ponderosa and sugar pine, $10 for white fir, $15 for douglas fir and $3 for incense cedar. This timber is located in the Baker divide area, in the vicinity of Baker ranch, Placer county.

Dasmann pointed out that all sales of national forest timber are made as the result of competitive bidding and the award is made to the bidder whose quotation results in greatest income to the national forest.

Dasmann explained that in accordance with the "receipts to states act," first passed in 1908, 25 percent of all receipts from national forest are returned directly to the counties lying within the forests. In addition, 10 percent of the receipts are returned to the forests for road and trail work.

DOUGLAS FIR LANDMARK NEAR SCALES IS CUT

The huge fir was a landmark of the Sierra county area.

Stanley said the measurement was taken four feet above the ground and that a special permit is necessary to haul over roads the first two or three sections of the log because of excess weight.

Paul Became A New Man Through Christ

ST. PAUL has often been referred to as the greatest man in history, next to his Master, Jesus Christ.

Measure Paul by any standard you may choose, and his greatness becomes plain. In unquenchable zeal, in courage and endurance, he stands superb and supreme. And the greatness of his life had a clear and simple source—his discovery of Jesus and the giving of his life wholly and completely to the dominance of the Master.

He was known first as Saul. Why his parents had given him that name is hard to understand, for Saul, first king of Israel, was one of Israel's tragic failures.

However that may be, we find him, as Saul, an intense and earnest young man, brought up in the very strict way of the Pharisees, thoroughly trained in the Jewish Scriptures, having sat at the feet of the great teacher, Gamaliel.

How, then, did it come about that this conscientious young man could call himself the "chief of sinners," and glory in his conversion?

The answer is that sincerity is not enough. A man may be intensely and earnestly going in the wrong direction, or doing the wrong things. Saul was intolerant. Saul was a persecutor. His religion, with all his earnestness, had not taught him the lesson of kindliness and gentleness.

There is hope for a man who is honest and sincere, even if he is going in the wrong direction. Get him turned in the right way, and he is a power for good.

The Golden Text is in Paul's own words: "If any man be in Christ there is a new creation; old things are passed away, all things have become new." That was what happened to Paul. What made him so persistent was his conviction that what happened to him could happen to any man.

CONSOLIDATION

The time is fast approaching when residents of Nevada City and Grass Valley should consider consolidating the two communities, and incorporate the area between as one city.

The day of the horse and buggy when it required an hour or so to make the trip, is gone. Today silent horses of internal combustion engines transport individuals in a matter of minutes.

Nevada City's economic life is tied to Grass Valley. The principal stores are there, and Nevada City can never hope to be anything more than a picturesque residential community, and as such it can continue as a suburban part of a greater city formed by the union of the two cities.

A major reason for the advisability of consolidating the two communities is the combined effective civic endeavor of one town instead of the petty jealousies and bickerings of two ineffectual groups. We have two chambers of commerce, one in each city, and neither one of them able to accomplish anything, muddling along with poverty-stricken treasuries.

The governments of our cities is another example of uneconomical duplication. We have a street department in each city, each with duplicated machinery, where one set of machinery could do the work for both communities. Grass Valley has just built a sewage disposal plant and Nevada City is starting construction on one. Perhaps one sewage disposal plant would serve both communities.

The whole idea calls for unselfish thinking—the same type of thinking that will have to be necessary before the nations of the world wipe the blot of war from the face of the earth.—kww.

HANDWRITING ON THE WALL

To Belshazzar, king of ancient Babylon, the fearful warning on the wall of his banquet hall came too late. That very night he and his kingdom were destroyed.

Here in America there's handwriting on our own walls today: "EXCESSIVE DEBT LEADS TO DISASTER!"

Our public debt . . . national, state and local . . . staggers the imagination. Worse yet, through the so-called policy of "Deficit Spending," we are plunging deeper and deeper into the red. We're spending money we don't have.

These spending policies now endanger the security and prosperity of all American business and industry, both large and small, and of their employes, stockholders and customers. That means, of course, that the security and prosperity of you and you . . . and everyone else . . . is at stake, too!

Take a look at the record. During America's first 152 years (1789 to 1941), the federal government spent a total of 180 billion dollars. Now, in the five years ending June, 1950, it will have spent 217 billion dollars. That is 37 billion dollars more, spent in the last five years alone, than was spent during the first century and a half of our nation's existence.

Any man can create a false and temporary prosperity for himself by living beyond his income and by borrowing money to make up the difference. Would you handle your own family finances that way? Of course not. Nor would any sensible business man handle his company's affairs in such a manner. A day of reckoning always comes. Debts must be paid.

The policy of "Deficit Spending" has now increased the federal debt to 256 billion dollars. Your share of this debt burden is $1,700. Your wife and each member of your family owes that much, too. So does every person in America. Each of your children must face the future, carrying a $1,700 mortgage, as of today. It may be more next year.

There is one answer to this frightening problem . . . SIMPLE, SENSIBLE DAY-BY-DAY ECONOMY. Most of us practice that kind of economy in our private lives. Isn't it time we started to practice that same kind of economy in our national, state and local governments, too?—scissored.

WHERE DO WE GO FROM HERE?

Are we in war? Was June 27, 1950, the start of the third world war? Whatever it might be called, American men are being killed in combat in South Korea and American women and children are becoming widows and orphans. American prestige and American arms are being soundly thrashed in the Far East.

Is Korea the Bataan of this new war? Have we forgotten the lessons of the last war? If Korea is so important to our global strategy, that American lives are now considered expendable, why was a situation permitted to develop that is now resulting in such blows to our pride and arms? If we are unable to stop the Koreans are we prepared to stop the Russians in a vaster arena? —kww.

The true test of civilization is, not the census, nor the size of cities, nor the crops, but the kind of man that the country turns out.—Emerson.

He Didn't Know It Was Loaded!

JUDGE SNELL RULES NO JURISDICTION IN PATENT INFRINGEMENT CASE

Ruling that the superior court had no jurisdiction in the case, Judge James Snell removed from the court calendar an $85,000 damage suit against the Miners Foundry and Manufacturing Co., Nevada City, brought by Mrs. Marvel F. Reynolds.

Mrs. Reynolds charged the machinery firm adopted improvements on a juicer machine, patented by her husband, without her consent. She alleged the foundry, after adopting use of the improvement refused to pay for the use of it, and refused to discontinue its use.

Mrs. Reynolds charged the foundry returned models of the improvement, declaring the improvement unworkable, and that the factory began to manufacture juicers with the improvement incorporated, without remuneration, contract or consent.

Judge Snell dismissed the case on a demurrer filed by Frank G. Finnegan, attorney for the foundry.

Mrs. Reynolds recently received patent rights to an invention, according to word from Washington, for a device to collect fiber and prevent mixing with juice of a citrus fruit juice extractor.

Letters to The Editor

The views and opinions appearing in this column, Letters to The Editor, are not necessarily those of The Nugget.

July 11, 1950

Publisher, The Nugget:

Please send me ten copies of The Nugget containing the old history of the county, and which I believe commemorated one hundred years of the life of Nevada City. There are many friends living in other cities who will appreciate reading it. The issue was an excellent one and was, I can appreciate, a long and difficult job for the one who had to dig up the stuff.

Will you please send me the issue covering the Fourth of July celebration. This is the one in which you, or someone in the employ of the paper, smeared the Tobiassen family. The reference to the gold star mother was not well received over here, and it would appear that any family who shows the interest in a Fourth of July celebration, with all its work, is entitled to praise rather than criticism. However, that is your business and if you were evening a score that is your business also, whether it met with public approval or not. I haven't seen the story, only people who have talked to me about it.

Send a bill along with the papers and I will send a remittance.

Yours very truly,

JAMES C. TYRRELL.
Grass Valley.

Editor's note: We appreciate and thank Mr. Tyrrell for his words of praise of our historical edition, but we feel he had better get first-hand information about the Tobiassen article instead of accepting the distorted hearsay of second-hand information. We are reprinting the Tobiassen article in this column and if anyone can find any smearing of the Tobiassen family or slurring remarks about a gold-star mother, all we can say is that person interprets plain English through a warped personality.—kww.

Reprinted from the July 7 edition of The Nugget:

You can say the Tobiassen family was evident at the Fourth of July Centennial Celebration.

Papa Tobiassen, Carl J., that is, for 12 years sheriff of Nevada county and current supervisor of the first district, was chairman of the parade committee and was responsible for arranging and assigning places in the big parade.

Mrs. Tobiassen participated in the parade, riding in the shining convertible that is the current automobile of Davey Tobiassen. Mrs. Tobiassen was a representative of Sierra Chapter, Gold Star Mothers.

Davey, in addition to furnishing the vehicle for the Gold Star Mothers, participated in the boxing and wrestling shows staged by his bigger brother, Elton. Elton also participated in the boxing show.

Bill Tobiassen made himself generally useful around the celebration, supplying a spot of music here and there, and serving as escort for the Goddess of Liberty—Miss Wanda Stinson, who is Bill's fiancee.

Ronnie, nine years old, was marshal of the children's parade both on Sunday and Tuesday. He was resplendent in patriotic colors astride his pony.

And the younger generation got into the act. Patricia, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elton Tobiassen, participated in the children's parade.

Hearkening to the whirring wings of the stork, Mrs. Mildred Music, daughter of the family, confined her participation to being a spectator.

THE WORLD'S MOST BEAUTIFUL WILL

Editor's Note — The following will is published by request. This document was found in a ragged coat pocket of a crazed inmate of a Chicago poorhouse. The writer had once been a lawyer of promise, if not of prominence, and the will was written in a firm, clear hand on a few scraps of paper. By chance it fell into appreciative hands and was passed on until a Chicago lawyer read it before the Chicago Bar Association. A resolution was passed by that body ordering it probated and it may now be found in the records of Cook county, Illinois.

"I, Charles Lounsberry, being of sound and disposing mind and memory, do hereby make and publish this, my last will and testament in order, as justly as may be, to describe my interest in the world among succeeding men.

"That part of my interests which is known in law and recognized in the sheepbound volumes as my property, being inconsiderable and of no account, I make no disposition of in this, my will. My right to live, being but a life estate, is not at my disposal, but, these things excepted, all else in the world I now proceed to devise and bequeath.

"I give to good fathers and mothers, in trust for their children, all good little words of praise and encouragement and all quaint pet names and endearments and I charge said parents to use them justly, and generously, as the needs of their children shall require.

"I leave to children exclusively, but only for the term of their childhood, all and every one, the flowers of the fields and the blossoms of the woods, with the right to play among them freely according to the customs of children, warning them at the same time against thistles and thorns. And I devise to children the banks of the brooks and the golden sands beneath the waters thereof, and the odors of the willows that dip therein, and the white clouds that float high over the giant trees.

"And I leave to the children the long, long days to be merry in, in a thousand ways, and the night and the trains of the Milky Way to wonder at, but subject, nevertheless, to the rights hereinafter given to lovers.

"I devise to boys, jointly, all the useful, idle fields and commons where ball may be played, all pleasant waters where one may swim, all snowclad hills where one may coast, and streams and ponds where one may fish, or when grim winter comes, one may skate, to hold the same for the period of their boyhood. And all meadows, with the clover blossoms and butterflies thereof; the woods with their appurtenances; the squirrels and the birds and echoes and strange noises, and all distant places which may be visited, together with the adventures there found. And I give to said boys each his own place at the fire side at night, with all pictures that may be seen in the burning wood, to enjoy without lot or hindrance or without any incumbrance or care.

"To lovers I devise their imaginery world, with whatever they may need, as the stars of the sky, the red rose by the wall, the bloom of the hawthorne, the sweet strains of music, and aught else they may desire to figure to each other the lastingness and beauty of their love.

"To young men, jointly, I devise and bequeath all boisterous inspiring sports of rivalry, and I give to them the disdain of weakness and undaunted confidence in their own strength. Though they are rude, I leave them the power to make lasting friendships and of possessing companions, and to them exclusively, I give all merry songs and grave choruses to sing with lusty voices.

"And to those who are no longer children or youths or lovers, I leave memory; and bequeath to them the volumes of the poems of Burns and Shakespeare and of other poets, if there be others, to the end that they may live the old days over again, freely and fully, without tithe or diminution.

"To our loved one with snowy crowns, I bequeath the happiness of old age, the love and gratitude of their children until they fall asleep."

GRASS VALLEY BRAVES BRAVELY GO AHEAD WITH RUFFIAN GAME

Dick Trathen and his Grass Valley Braves are bravely proceeding with plans to play their scheduled Placer-Nevada baseball league game with the Nevada City Athletics, often called Ruffians, here Sunday afternoon in Pioneer park.

The Braves, who have been the doormat of the league ever since the Athletics whipped them 5-2 in the first half game, got a measure of revenge on Independence day when they dumped the Athletics 6-5 in an exhibition game.

Steve "Gashouse" Pelayo, manager of the Athletics, will not decide on his starting line-up until after a practice session tonight at Pioneer park, although he has definitely assigned Carl Fisher to start the game. Fisher pitched the Athletics to victory in the first game between the two clubs this year.

Pelayo said that if Ains Fouyer is ready to go he will start behind the plate. Art Gagliardi, leading hitter of the Nevada City team will probably be in the outfield if Fouyer catches.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

There it Was— Right in The Middle!

Easy Roberts mowed his lawn early last Saturday. Then he sat on the porch, and watched Handy Peterson cutting his grass.

The Roberts' property and the Peterson's border each other—with no hedge or fence between them. So, when Easy notices Handy had left about a four-foot strip unmowed along the boundary, he walks over and asks why.

"That's your land," says Handy. "Mine ends here. See, it lines up with that oak tree across the road!" Easy didn't think so, so they went up and down looking for the surveyor's marker. Where did they find it? Right in the middle of their "no man's land!"

Well, they both grin and take turns finishing the job and then retreat to Easy's for a friendly glass of beer together. From where I sit, a little searching around for the truth of the matter often shows that the other fellow is as much right as you are—at which point the whole thing doesn't seem as important anyway.

STINKING UMPIRING AND WEAK PINCH-HITTING LOSES FOLSOM GAME

Folsom's Merchants defeated the Nevada City Athletics 6-4 Sunday afternoon in Pioneer park by the grace of some blind umpiring on the part of Dick Gray, ineffectual pinch-hitting by the Nevada City batters and effectual pinch-hitting by Folsom.

Folsom was gifted two of their runs on Gray's decisions. After two were out in the second Garlinghouse grounded to Capps at short and despite universal acceptance that he was out by a full step at first, he was called safe. A wild pitch advanced him to second and Stork singled him home.

In the next inning, with two out Whitmyre attempted to steal second and Haddy took Gagliardi's peg 10 feet in front of second base and made his play on the Folsom runner. Gray called him safe. Bailey singled Whitmyre in for a run. Those two runs were the margin of victory for the visitors.

In the eighth inning with the score tied 4-4 Hartnett, who had replaced Garlinghouse, dropped a blooper into right field to push Vance in for the winning run.

Ains Fouyer, Carl Fisher and Steve Pelayo all failed as pinch-hitters in the last two innings of the game.

Wyrzykowski scored the first run of the game in the first inning, after doubling. Whitmyre singled him home. With their two gifts Folsom had a 3-0 lead in the third inning.

In the third Jones lead off with a double and scored on Bob Capps' infield out. Babe Childers who had walked was scored by Jake Goldsberry on a slash single to center field.

Folsom made it 4-2 on two singles and a stolen base.

Nevada City added a run in the sixth on three successive singles, Goldsberry scoring ahead of Art Gagliardi's blow. The Athletics tied the score in the seventh after Jones walked, stole second and was sacrificed to third. Childers skied to Ryan to send Jones in with the tying run.

RIDGE RESIDENT DIES IN HOSPITAL

Funeral services were held at the Hooper-Weaver mortuary in Grass Valley Tuesday morning for Arthur Sweeney, 87, San Juan ridge resident, who died Sunday morning at the Nevada county hospital.

Sweeney, a native of Poland, came to the U. S. about fifty years ago and for the past 30 years has been mining in the ridge area.

Sweeney has no known relatives surviving.

Lookin' Around

hand-drawn iron staples, ancient pick-heads, and other artifacts of the mining days. Moore's Flat once had a population of over 1,000.

Through Vizzard's ranch we drove, down through a Dantesque mass of boulders, and along a sharp ridge. Encouraged by a faint trail, we hung on while the jeep dragged us to the top of a hill where the first citizens of Moore's Flat were laid to rest under marble stones. The earliest interment still marked was in 1858; nearly all the stones carried dates before 1880. Nature's blanket of close-growing tarweed covers the cemetery and great pines shade it but the marble slabs placed in fond memory show deep weathering of the century.

After climbing a very steep pitch back to the main road out of the old townsite, it was only about two miles further to Buck's ranch, a handsome two-story farmhouse in a comfortable yard.

In spite of our dusty disguise, Victor Buck recognized Bob Paine at once and for the next hour he and his charming wife were our most hospitable hosts. Victor and his three brothers were born on the ranch; he is the last survivor. His father, L. F. K. Buch, emigrated from Norway in 1851, reached Orleans Flat where the ranch house stands the following year. In spite of the gold craze which surrounded him, the hardy Norseman declared he would remain in that beautiful spot the rest of his days. He and his wife raised a fine family there and they prospered by tilling the soil and raising good beef.

Victor Buck and his wife, Ethel, are taking it easy now and they have wisely chosen to spend the comfortable years in this 98-year-old house with its modern lighting and fire protection system. There's a mellow charm about the house which the conveniences of this generation have not dulled.

Dusk warned us to get on to our camping spot so we reluctantly moved on. The road soon dipped toward the river and I do mean dipped. In a quarter of a mile we dropped 1,100 feet. Figure that out for a power dive. Bob says he remembers when he rode a horse's neck all the way down this trail; a four-wheel drive vehicle in low gear is far more comfortable. But a descent by conventional car is foolhardy.

While the trail down into Gold canyon is principal access to the German Bar and Plumbago mining properties, it is apparently used mostly by fishermen in search of an isolated spot for river casting. We had a fine campout beside the stream, were on our way again after an early breakfast. The only way out is back up the road we came in on. We then followed a circuitous route via the San Juan ridge road, traveling six miles to reach Cherry hill lookout, which—by airline—is only a mile from the camping place.

The ranger lookout at Cherry hill courteously pointed out the points of interest in the vast panorama which surrounds his mountaintop home. Located near the center of Tahoe national forest, his position is important in detection of dangerous smokes.

It was less than four miles further to Graniteville via dustclouds. Once a bustling mining town, later a favorite summer resort, Graniteville now survives on a little lumbering and a lot of memories. There is a gasoline pump, and a small store. Perhaps two dozen habitable houses are visible from the road, some of them bright with new paint. Arch Cline, retired blacksmith who was born in Graniteville about seven decades back, chatted for a while and showed us pictures of Eureka, the original gold-camp name of the community. Arch also had a photograph of the old water-flume trestle that was the pride of the district. It stood 120 feet high, 4,200 feet long, and the flume measured 16 by 40 inches. Since destruction of the trestle the whole San Juan ridge for 20 miles west has dried up.

We dropped in to see the McLeans, who have passed their four-score mark in this district. They owned and operated the fabulous Golden State hotel at Graniteville for many years, William McLean having moved materials from Moore's Flat for the original construction. Since the hotel burned down the community has declined in importance; only eight patrons are listed at the tiny postoffice.

Extensive logging operations are underway in the area between Graniteville and Washington. The huge log we saw in the centennial parade came from here. The sawmill at Washington is a busy place. Some of the best mining operations in the county are also in this area.

Our smooth return home on highway 20 was an anti-climax after the rigors of mountain trails. The historical caravan on July 23 will probably take a direct route on the San Juan ridge road to Graniteville and return by the same route. A closed sedan will minimize the dust hazard but drivers who take this trip will do well to pray for a summer shower on the 22nd.
